

Catholic Charities Diocese of Charlotte is a primary resettlement agency in Charlotte that has been welcoming refugees for over 40 years. The agency works on behalf of the State Department to welcome and resettle refugees from around the world. Over the past four decades, CCDOC has welcomed over 15,000 refugees representing over 27 nationalities. Community support is a key component to ensuring our newly arrived refugee neighbors have the necessary items to build a strong foundation in their new homeland.

Donations listed below are always needed and may be purchased at any time. To organize a donation drop off or pick up contact:

Language

For many refugees, learning English is an important part of acculturating to their new homeland. Refugees enroll in English Second Language (ESL) classes, however, home study is an important part of the learning process. Picture dictionaries are critical to providing additional aid for communicating and learning.

- The Oxford Picture Dictionary: the Monolingual Edition (the Oxford picture dictionary program). May be purchased on Amazon or other book retailer sites

Transportation

New arrivals rely on the public transportation to travel around Charlotte for employment, doctor appointments and grocery shopping. Bus passes provide them with freedom of movement and in many cases access to ESL classes. These can be purchased at select Harris Teeter customer service counters, as well as the CATs Transport Station in Uptown.

- Bus passes (10 rides)
